SENATOR WALSH DIES SUDDENLY ON TRAIN

ROOSEVELT AND KIN READY FOR CAPITAL TRIP

Keeps Close Touch With Developments of Congress Now Ending

MAY SUMMON NEW CONGRESS EARLY

World Economic Conference In Near Future Also Looms

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, March 2.—Happy, ready and eager, Franklin D. Roosevelt called in his family and immediate official friends today for the trip to Washington and the white house.

Alive to the economic turmoil surrounding the dying days of the Republican administration, Mr. Roosevelt gave no hint of worry about it as he made ready for the greatest trip of his life—the journey on the road to inauguration as president of the United States.

Thinking On "New Deal"

He kept close touch with the developments of the ending seventy-second congress, William H. Woodin, master of finance and new secretary of the treasury, was within hailing distance, but Mr. Roosevelt was thinking of his inaugural day and the "new deal" he has in mind.

Late today—about 4 p. m.—he will entrain for Washington to spend a day before going to the white house to join President Hoover for the momentous ride to the capital where he takes the oath.

With him will be his mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt, Sr.; Mrs. Roosevelt; his son James and Mrs. James Roosevelt, Jr.; Elliott and his wife; John and Franklin, the boys still in preparatory school.

The presidential car also will include Louis M. Howe, the Roosevelt secretary; Gus Genet, personal aide of the New York police force; and William J. Green, of the New York state troopers. Various other notables also will be in the party.

Early Congress Looms

That there is every sign that Mr. Roosevelt is preparing to plunge quickly into the problems confronting him. Without doubt he will call the new congress into special session at an early date but he will not act until he sees what this congress has done when it ends next Saturday noon.

The perplexing domestic situation has almost eclipsed the international field which Roosevelt has been studying recently but he is going ahead in that direction too. An early world economic conference is believed certain. That will be held before any war debts relief is taken up by the next president.

Five Officers Get Federal Sentences

CINCINNATI, March 2.—Five law enforcement officers and an alleged bootlegger of Lawrence county were given sentences in federal court here for liquor law violations.

Convicted of selling liquor and re-selling it, William E. Bannum, marshal of Chesapeake, O., drew a 15-month prison term and a fine of $2,000, and John Rife, a deputy, was given seven months. Thomas Cunningham, alleged Chesapeake bootlegger, was sentenced to four months.

Suspended sentences of seven months upon their plea of guilty were imposed on Harry Leffingwell and Ben Dunfee, both constables of Union township, and Frank Miller, justice of the peace at Athalia.

White Is Planning New Bank Law; Will Probably Go to State Assembly Next Week

Refuses to Outline Proposals In Advance; Has Received Numerous Suggestions from Financiers and Others On Changes

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, O., March 2.—New and important banking legislation, growing out of the present banking situation in Ohio, probably will be proposed by the administration next week. Governor George White said today.

While refusing to outline any new banking law proposals he will make, the governor let it be known that he had received numerous suggestions from bankers and others. He said the administration expected to have in hand, by Monday or Tuesday, all the details on the situation, and that if conditions warranted, he would ask the legislature to enact new laws or amend present statutes to remedy any defects found.

Relief Funds Tied Up
The executive said he was much concerned over the situation in which relief agencies found themselves. He explained that these agencies were under a constant drain and that under the restrictions placed on withdrawal of bank deposits, the funds of many of them were tied up.

The governor has received suggestions from some sources that the new banking laws, providing restrictions on withdrawals, be amended so that financial institutions can invest new deposits. Under the emergency law enacted Monday night, new deposits must be segregated by the banks and held at the demand of the depositors. The governor refused to state his attitude on this question.

Ira J. Fulton, state superintendent of banks, reported to the governor today that the banking situation in Ohio was "quiet." He added that his department had been so busy granting authority to banks to limit withdrawals, that no effort had been made to compile a list of the institutions which have taken advantage of the new law.

SENATOR WALSH WAS ENROUTE NORTH FROM TRIP TO CUBA

Attorney-General In Roosevelt Cabinet Is Stricken Near Wilson, N. C., On Trip From Florida to Washington

(By Associated Press)
ROCKY MOUNT, N. C., March 2.—Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana died suddenly of a heart attack aboard an Atlantic coast line train near Wilson today while enroute to Washington with his bride whom he married Saturday in Havana.

The senator, who was to be attorney-general in the cabinet of President-elect Roosevelt, was stricken and died within a few minutes as he lay face downward in a berth in his drawing room.

He was 73 years old.

Senator Walsh died at 7:10 a. m., as Conductor Herbert Weatherspee operating the train between Laurens, S. C. and Rocky Mount, felt his pulse.

Only the conductor, Mrs. Walsh and her Cuban maid and a porter were present.

Mrs. Walsh Hysterical
Mrs. Walsh was described as hysterical by Conductor Weatherspee who said he reached the senator's side at 7:02.

"The senator died while I held his hand," Weatherspee said. "Mrs. Walsh was hysterical. Dr. R. J. Costello, of Cambridge, Mass., was located on the train but he arrived after the senator died."

Mrs. Walsh, who speaks little English, told Weatherspee her husband awakened about 6:30 a. m. and that he was "doubled up" in pain. She said she found Senator Walsh holding his stomach with his hands.

BURGLARS LOOT STORE IN ELKTON
Frank W. Hawkins Loses Truck Load of Merchandise

Burglars who last night looted the Frank W. Hawkins general store, Elkton, driving away with more than a truck load of food and other merchandise are being sought today by county authorities.

Forcing a window on the west side of the store, the thieves are reported to have hauled away coffee, canned fruits and vegetables, potatoes, beans, more than 20 pounds of cheese, cereals, cigars, candy and a 22 caliber rifle.

Shoes were taken from boxes and scattered all over the store as the burglars apparently sought a pair to suit them. Other merchandise, including foodstuffs, were also scattered on the floor.

Hawkins told Deputies George Hays and Paul Early, detailed by Sheriff Frank Ballantine to investigate the burglary that he had closed the store at 9 p. m. Wednesday. He discovered the burglary on reopening for business early today.

He was unable to estimate exactly the value of goods taken. No money was stolen, he said.

"Frats" Approved By O. W. U. Prexy
DAYTON, O., March 2.—Fraternalists must contribute more to the general welfare of colleges, in the opinion of Dr. Edmund D. Soper, president of Ohio Wesleyan university.

Speaking at a dinner honoring Capt. Henry Eugene Parrott, oldest alumnus of Ohio Wesleyan and oldest member of Sigma Chi on his 94th birthday anniversary, the educator said last night that fraternities will last because they are based on friendship.

Dr. Soper was asked later if he considered fraternities an intellectual asset. He replied:

"We are beginning to realize that if they do not contribute to the educational and moral life of the college, they have no reason for existing. It is the fraternities from which the leadership of the future will come."

Collision Fatal
HILLSBORO, O., March 2.—The collision of an automobile and a truck resulted in the death of George Swearingner, 33, employee of an insurance company, and slight injuries to M. McArdle, a companion. The driver of the truck, Merrill Barry of Mt. Gilead, escaped injury.

Wipe Out Dueling
BUDAPEST, March 2.—Dueling, dear to the honor of upper class Hungarians, is at last being wiped out—by the economic recession. It costs too much. Fencing lessons, doctor's expenses and the entertainment of expenses all mount up to a bill to heavy for most pocket-books.

Dr. Frederick Tice, Chicago heart specialist, frankly said the mayor was "definitely on the upgrade and barring unforeseen circumstances, we can now say he will recover."

Cermak's Condition Shows Improvement
MIAMI, Fla., March 2.—Dr. Frank Jirka, son-in-law of Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago, at 7:45 a. m. today issued the following bulletin on the mayor's condition:

Dr. Jirka said the hicoughs were due to peritoneal irritation but were not considered serious. During the night the mayor's respiration dropped to 30. It is the lowest it has been reported in several days.

BUILDING A CLIMAX

No man ever faced a more attentive audience than Franklin D.
Roosevelt will face when he starts to deliver his inaugural address Saturday. Few men have faced so great a responsibility of reassuring a great body of people in the trembling fear of uncertainty.

It is reported that the president-elect will refrain from declaring a program in his speech on inauguration day. He will deliver a general message to his countrymen, a document of the spirit of his administration. In the governors' conference, to be held following inauguration day, he will begin to disclose point by point the phases of his program. It is known that Mr.
Roosevelt intends to release nothing until it is completely ready and as flawless as his judgment and the judgment of his advisers can make it.

The full program of the first part of the Democratic administration will be stated in the presidential message to a special session of the new congress, which probably will be called in April. Not until then, unless Mr. Roosevelt chooses to show his hand in the meantime, will the people be informed fully of the values in the "new deal."

Partisanship drops away in genuine and universal hope that the incoming president may be the beneficiary of inspiration in whatever message he delivers to his countrymen next Saturday. Within the week there has come to this state, in the chaos of the banking situation, a more direct realization of the urgent need for leadership—any leadership that will be positive and exercised in the interests of the people. They will be looking for it in every thought and every infection of the words Mr. Roosevelt will speak on the great occasion next Saturday.

A climax has been prepared in anticipation. Failure to measure up to its gigantic proportions would shake foundations of confidence already weakened by severe and protracted abuse. Success might be the needed touch that would transform utter discouragement into hope. A deeply distressed people pray for a message that will lift them out of their despondency over the baffling details of their numerous troubles.

REASONABLY REPRESENTATIVE

Official completion of his cabinet with appointment of Miss Frances Perkins, New York state commissioner of labor as secretary of labor, gives Mr. Roosevelt a breathing space before the start of his administration. It gives the country an opportunity to round up its comments on the various cabinet officers as their identity became certain, frequently before confirmation of their appointment was given.

If it were necessary to describe the cabinet in a phrase, the words probably would be "reasonably representative." No description could come closer to the truth; apparently with intention, Mr. Roosevelt set out to assemble an advisory council to work with him which would be a cross-section of the population. It was not his purpose to fill the administrative kitchen with too many cooks, out with plenty of willing assistants.

It is far from the dream cabinet sketched by ambitious Democrats when it appeared certain that Mr.
Roosevelt was a sure winner in the election. There are in it none of the great names and the great brains of the Democratic party. On the contrary, there are some brains never acknowledged brilliant and some names which very recently were found in Republican lists.

But every member is a Roosevelt friend. On a basis of potential influence and geographical favor, they represent an ambitious favorable bid for that harmony without which no man can make a successful record. Three—Miss Perkins,

Mr. Farley and Mr. Woodin—are from the east. Three—Mr. Hull, Mr.
Swanson and Mr. Roper—are from the south. Two—Mr. Ickes and Mr.
Wallace—are from the middle west.
Mr. Dern is from the west, as was Mr. Walsh, who died suddenly this morning. Southern democracy has been given its due, but not at the expense of Democracy in other parts of the country and not to the exclusion of that deserting branch of the Republican party recognized in the appointments of Mr. Wallace and Mr. Ickes.

Balance is further achieved by distribution of conservative minds and liberal minds, with one—that of Mr. Wallace—suspected of being radical. There are experts aplenty, but no authorities, with the possible exception of Mr. Hull, whose prestige has increased wonderfully in the last few weeks. It is, in all, a cabinet which should work with Mr. Roosevelt on good terms—and that is what the people actually want more than many of them imagined they wanted a cabinet of celebrities who undoubtedly would have made Mr. Roosevelt's life wretched.

The Stars Say:

For Friday, March 3

According to the planetary configurations bearing rule on the affairs of this day things may be but fairly active as relates to business or commercial interests, but the high lights will be noticeable in the realm of domestic, affectional, social or artistic pursuits or avocations. It is probable that romantic affairs may claim exclusive attention with possibly much in the way of ardent correspondence, but a wee note of warning might be sounded lest discontent be cast to the winds and some serious complications ensue. A child born on this day may be exceptionally fond of pleasure and society, possibly to the overlooking of more sober interests in life. But it is well endowed for artistic, social and romantic achievements in creative lines, and may have literary talent or musical inclinations.

Notable nativity: Jean Harlow, screen actress.

New York

Day
by
Day

By O. O. McINTYRE.

NEW YORK, March 2.—Out of the cataclysmic downpour, there flowers a sudden passion for "The Things New York Forget." The art museums, 200s and private galleries, as well as the Museum of Natural History are more crowded than ever. Even the Statue of Liberty almost plays to the S. R. O.

Most of the visitors are metropol-itans, or are from the surrounding suburbia. The Bronx, 200, as well as the Central Park 200s, once were almost desolated during the winter.
Now there is a daily stream of people. And at the Aquarium, the other afternoon, there were at least 200.

One lady, with closely docked hair, was sketching fish to show, for a magazine, that some of the best known profiles are ichthyic.
The resemblance between President-elect Roosevelt and a sunfish was striking. The similarity of Floyd Gibbons to another specimen was just as pronounced.

To me, there always has been something stimulating in a visit to the Natural History museum—a pleasant propping for answers to questions that man does not understand. And, although most people come away baffled, they are a little more humble, a little more tolerant.

In salvaging Christmas greetings which I wanted to save, I came upon what, to my notion, was the cleverest. It was in an envelope of the "World Wide Clipping Bureau, Bombay, India," and inside was a clipping. Under a head: "Annoyed at Cable Service," it read: "Burma, Ind., Dec. 26.—(By special cable) Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Woodard, who broke the record for bagging big game in this territory, were announced to find the government cable out of order upon their arrival.
They were especially anxious to send Christmas greeting to their friends, Mr. and Mrs. O. O. McIntyre, in the States. The cable man—Review." The card had been mailed from Spencer, W.
Va., where the Woodards spent the whole winter. Only the postmark was the giveaway.

Many New York hotels are making no effort to collect back payments from patrons, until things get better. No keyholes are being plugged, either. The proprietors have decided to gamble on the honesty of old, established customers.

During one of the bleakest times of an almost chronic hard-up period in Manhattan I was faced with the possibility of eviction. In bucking the blizzard I went to the proprietary—and there's no reason for hiding it, he was J. W. McGraw, then owner of the Herald— and revealed my acute financial embarrassment. I was told to forget it.
Not once in a several months' stretch did I feel unwelcome. He did not lose a penny, and I am convinced that humanity, in the mass, averages a similar honesty.

In a traffic slow-up, approaching a bridge crossing to Brooklyn, the other evening, I looked down at the serene domesticity of a bar. There were snug quarters astern, with a frisky fox terrier dashing about. In a clean kitchen, a neat hand-housewife, in sage-blue apron, bent over copper dishes—and there was the fragrant tang of frying ham. A shirt-sleeved husband tilted near the kitchen door, smoking a corn cob and reading an evening paper.
There was, by contrast, something horrible about contemplating one of those fussy afternoon teas for which we were bound.

Thingumabobs: Owen Young gave the Rockefeller's idea for Radio City. Mark Hellinger can down more brandies and walk out cold sober than any one on Broadway. David Warfield can fake French, Italian, Spanish and Chinese so amazingly that linguists are bewildered. Dorothy Fields makes an entire meal of wild rice.

So Does Lawrence Tibbett. . .
Mary Gardner's father, at 81, a sartorial dandy with an imperial. . .
her constant escort at parties. . .
Charlie Chaplin no longer will give autographs. . . Lynn Fontaine and her husband, Alfred Lunt, in their first frugal housekeeping experiment, slept on the floor.

Major Bowes can play anything in E flat. Rita Watson can write best at Atlantic City. . . Booth Tarkington's favorite dog is the French poodle. . . Sime Silverman and his son, Sid, twist a lock of hair when excited. . . Jack North-worth is motoring to the coast. . .
Frank Cravin is directing a picture.

A group of loafers, across the room, are wisecracking about a certain Broadway actor, whose wife supports him. And I'm crouched, waiting to let go a roller coaster scream when some nit-wit chirps the inevitable: "Living by the sweat of his frau."

of value.

Keep Hands Away From Blemishes.

I recently visited a friend who was recuperating from "septicemia," commonly called "blood poisoning." In the course of conversation he told me that prior to his illness he had squeezed a small pimple in his upper lip. He thought lightly of this until he was suddenly stricken with a high fever and rushed to the hospital. It was found necessary to operate.

When my friend squeezed the pimple he caused the infection to spread into the blood stream. He will never squeeze a pimple again, no matter how small it is. But I want to warn you against this temptation. You should never do it.

May Lead to Infection

Nature throws a defensive wall around a pimple, or boil. When you squeeze it, you break this wall, destroy the protection, and permit the germs to escape into the surrounding tissues and ultimately into the blood itself.

If the pimple is located near a blood vessel of considerable size, the germs are apt to enter directly into the blood stream. The danger is always present, but it is particularly great when the pimple is located on the upper lip, or any part of the face above the mouth.

Septicemia is indeed a serious disease. It is usually traced to what was originally a trivial infection, like a pimple.

The safest way to deal with a pimple or boil is to keep the fingers away from it. Pain and tenderness may be lessened by the application of wet dressings of boric acid solution. By all means avoid the application of poultices and other medications except under the physician's supervision. He and only he is in position to determine what medication is called for and whether the pimple or boil should be opened.

Consult a Physician

When the infection is deep seated and painful, it is wise to apply heat.
This is best done by the application of gauze dipped in hot boric acid solution and kept hot by placing a hot water bag over it. This reduces the pain, brings the pus to the surface and limits the infection.

In most instances, it is necessary to open the infection and remove all the pus. Many persons dread this procedure. In order to avoid this simple operation they refrain from consulting with a physician.
This is unwise. Neglected pimples or boils may lead to complications demanding extensive surgery. Opening a boil is a simple, painless and successful procedure. It will prevent many hours of unnecessary suffering.

If you are subject to pimples or boils, consult with your doctor.

FOISON GAS COMES BACK.
SPECIAL LAWS FOR RADICALS

By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright, 1933 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

SAN FRANCISCO—This is the city that everybody in the world knows, has heard about and thought about. It is the city toward which the gold seekers rushed in the middle of the last century. The city of bonanza kings, of gold rolling down from the hills and streets, the city toward which the first great railroad across the continent came creeping.

Men that run San Francisco and are San Francisco are near descendants of those old pioneers and they are still pioneers of the Pacific ocean, extending the territory and influence of this country to Asia, the islands of the Pacific and all the western coast of North and South America.

CHINA continues to endure the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune. If only Japan attacked as she would have done formerly with real slings and arrows, China could stand it and perhaps conquer.

But modern Japan uses airplanes, exploding bombs, armored tanks that grunt and roar, pioneering their way through Chinese regiments spitting fire and bullets as they go.

And to make it worse London refuses to ship arms to either Japan or China. This is hard on China, and she protests.

The Japanese who look ahead in this fighting world wisely, and think in terms of fighting, are prepared. They have long had their fighting machinery bought and ready. It is said also that they have carefully and secretly hidden a big supply of gold. Poor China is like one of the foolish virgins that had lamps but no oil. She has population but nothing modern for the population to fight with.

CONDITIONS in Germany would be called "evil war" but for the fact of von Hindenburg, whom Germany trusts.

Hitler for the time possesses one Mussolini characteristic, having in his hands almost absolute power.
Germany, methodical, has formulated rules for the suppression of extreme radicalism.

You can go to jail for 11 years if you spread false news concerning government affairs or divulge government secrets.

For urging workers to strike you go to jail for three years. The penalty for revealing military secrets is death and for espionage it is life imprisonment.

Radicals are locked up, dozens at a time.

TO MAKE China's situation more desperate, according to General Tang Yu-Lin, governor of Jehol, the Japanese are dropping "poison gas bombs from airplanes."

A few days before the Chinese had been accused of using poison gas, against Japan.

INTERESTING to women; there is a new Roosevelt color. Everybody knows "Alice blue," named for Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, daughter of Theodore Roosevelt.

The new blue called "Eleanor blue" is named for Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, soon to move into the White House. She is a niece of Theodore Roosevelt, daughter of his brother.

The public will have its first glimpse of "Eleanor blue" when Mrs. Roosevelt wears her new "crystalline" velvet gown during the inauguration ceremonies. At the inauguration ball she will wear a brocade gown.

HIGHLIGHTS

(By Associated Press)

Thumbnail sketch of activities in the legislature.

The Lloyd-Matthews bill to permit boards of education to pay back salaries of teachers and other school employees in state-aid districts by issuing notes against anticipated revenue awaited the signature of Governor White today.
Legislative action on the measure was completed yesterday with house approval.

On the senate calendar today was an automobile driver's license bill, similar to one rejected by the house yesterday. The senate also is considering a compulsory motorists' liability insurance measure along with bills to create a state boxing commission and to license engineers and surveyors.

A barber's license bill was passed by the senate yesterday and sent to the house. The lower branch adopted and sent to the senate a resolution to ratify the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence seaway treaty.

The daily allowance of common pleas judges sitting by assignment outside their own counties would be reduced from $20 to $10 under a bill passed by the house and awaiting senate concurrence.

Appointment of a committee to consider the feasibility of guaranteeing state bank deposits is asked in a resolution introduced by Senator Ackerman (R) of Cleveland.

Three bills were killed by the house schools committee last night.
Two would have made the appointment of county superintendents of schools optional with boards of education. The third proposed abolition of the superintendencies along with county boards of education and county teachers institutes.

Indications that the "burn Ohio coal" bill would meet a similar fate were given with the announcement of Rep. Gillogly (D) of Muskingum county, that the house mines committee had deferred consideration of the measure. A hearing had been set for today.

"THE LOVE TRAP"

by ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

COPYRIGHT BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

Mary Kennedy, pretty secretary, engaged to Buck Landers, wealthy, middle-aged sports promoter, realizes love is greater than riches when she meets young and handsome Steve Moore, Landers' ward. Buck surprises Steve and Mary as they confess their love for one another. When Steve refuses to give up Mary, Landers threatens to frame him. Landers warns Mary Steve's fate depends upon her. He insists that she visit him to talk things over.

Fearing for Steve's safety, Mary has him move to her boarding house. Then she secretly goes to keep her appointment with Landers.

He insists that Mary marry him and Steve leave town.

Landers' henchmen "knock" Steve unconscious when he voluntarily asks them to take him to Landers.

Next morning Mary promises Landers she will be responsible if he will spare Steve.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

Grief, to Mary, was like a stunning blow that confused and jarred the mind. The full intensity of the pain would come later.

Rigorously, she suppressed the sensation of suffering and, as a result, the power of the desperate energy within her increased. Fear became transformed into a hazy excitement; her mind clung to the thought that she must find and rescue Steve. With an effort of will, she refused to anguish over his possible suffering, his danger. Thus, under pressure, she was discovering her own unrealized courage.

She went at once to Buck Landers, but not trembling and uncertain as she had been before. Her dark blue eyes, for the first time, had a hard glint. She was ready to meet his steel with steel.

In his apartment, he looked at her without any expression of love, not even with desire. She had become to him, evidently, an antagonist. This was a struggle, a battle. Romance had fled from Landers, leaving behind a terrible thirst for victory—a hatred for Mary's beauty that could only be assuaged by possession and mastery. But she would have to yield supine and conquered.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks pink, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a more movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas blows up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't take for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

in his arms before the old fires could flame anew.

"I'm glad you decided to be sensible and not lose your head," he said—and she felt he was suppressing a sneer. "It's not going to help you any to get excited—it won't help Steve, either."

"I'm not excited—now," she returned with a trace of vigor. "You're the one who ought to be excited and afraid, too."

"Yes! The hint of ill-will remained in his voice.

"Yes, You're smart, Mr. Landers—or you think you are—and I can't see why you imagine you can do terrible things and get away with it. If anything happens to Steve, you'll be punished. You'll be found out—that's absolutely certain. I haven't got your money and your brains, but I can see plain as day that you're in more danger right now than poor Steve—wherever he is—can possibly be. You'll be punished."

He made a sour mouth. "Really? And what makes you think I'm not willing to take that chance, even if what you say might be true? It seems you don't understand me yet. Some day you'll learn I mean what I say—I wouldn't let you and Steve make a rummy out of me—not if I had to take a thousand slim chances. But I haven't taken any chances whatever. Only the saps run big risks."

But his words beat harmlessly against her. Somehow she was able to stand up to him, as she had never been able to before.

"Suppose I went to the police and told them everything? Why, I could have you arrested, Mr. Landers, even with all your money, just by repeating all the things you said to me."

She looked at him closely and saw with disappointment, that he was laughing at her. He had been trained to a stony hardness in the rough school of experience, and her own attack was his self-possession. The granite wall of his self-possession.

"Don't you accuse me of?" he asked her contemptuously. "I could produce a dozen witnesses and every one of them would bear out a charge of blackmail against you. Oh, yes; it would be the easiest thing in the world to frame you. It's been done in this town before you know. But that's all foolishness. You're no fool—you won't let me come to that. We're not enemies—I'm merely putting some pressure on you, to hold you. It's all for your own good, at that. Are you still crazy about Steve?"

"I love him better than anything on earth," she declared, warmly. "What have you done to him? Where is he?" Her voice faltered.

tered a bit. "Mr. Landers, why don't you drop all of this wickedness? You could be such a wonderful man—"

"I'll tell you why I don't turn soft and do the blessed-you-child-dren stuff," he said. "I tried to hold you with kindness and good treatment, but you run out on me. The only thing a girl like you can understand is power—force. Do you think I want to go through all this rough stuff? It's the last resort with me, Mary—but I don't hesitate to use it, if necessary. I've got to put the clamps down on you to make a believer out of you. And the simplest way was to get at this young sap you think you're crazy about now."

"So far as Steve is concerned, I don't worry about him at all. When he crossed me he wiped out every ounce of good feeling I had for him. When a man turns against me, he's my enemy. You think you're my enemy now—and that's why I treat you like one—but you'll come back into the fold, never fear."

He had a deadly coolness that was beginning to chill her blood. It was no good arguing with him. His very frankness was entirely brutal.

"You weren't like this when I first met you," she said in amazement. "And now you act like a fiend!"

"No! I'm just gambling on a sure thing," he told her confidently. "The cards are marked against you, little Mary. But now let's stop this chin-music, and let me make you my proposition. Steve has disappeared. I'm not going to kid you—I know all about it. Some friends of mine picked him up, and they're holding him. They're tough eggs—birds that got Steve. If I give them word they'll do anything I say. They'll put him in a cage where nobody will find him. Or they might do worse—they might turn him loose, and he'll never be any good to himself or anybody else on this earth. That sounds pretty bad to you, doesn't it? Well, it is pretty bad—but I warned him to keep out. He butted into a play for high stakes—for a woman—and you're the woman, Mary dear. You belong to me and I'll go the limit to keep you. Mary me and I give you my word of honor. I'll give you my word of honor. He'll be put on a train for California and he'll have a nice little roll of money in his pocket. You won't have to worry about him, ever. Anyway it's ten to one he'll forget about you inside of a few days. If you really care a damn about this fellow you can show it by saving him. If you want to be stubborn, you merely sacrifice him to your bull-headedness. That's the lay-out."

His words sounded wild and incredible, but, as she looked at him, she saw that there was a bloodless sternness in his face—a savage intensity—that warned her that she was dealing with a man of a more dangerous type than any she had ever met, or imagined.

"How long will you give me to make a decision?" she asked nervously.

He estimated her with cold, appraising eyes.

"Till tomorrow, say, but on condition—and on this condition only—that you don't complicate things."

"Complicate?"

"It wouldn't do you any good, but you might get a wise idea of blabbing to the cops. If you do that, I promise you, you'll never see Steve again. And besides, you'll be wasting your time—and that's another promise."

She looked at him searchingly, and realized that he was not bluffing. "I won't go to the police," she promised. "Give me till tomorrow to think this over—I want you to think it over, too, Mr. Landers. You might decide that you are wrong about all this—you really are, you know."

"Till tomorrow, then?" he asked, unmoved.

A tension in her relaxed, and she became suddenly tired—she was dizzy and her knees weakened. "Tell me about Steve—he's all right, isn't he? You haven't done anything to hurt him? If I could only be sure that nothing awful has happened to him—"

"Steve is perfectly safe, for twenty-four hours, at least," Landers assured her.

KIDNAPERS FREE BOETTCHER, 2ND

Reports Conflict, However On Whether Family Paid Ransom

DENVER, March 2.—After nearly 17 days in the hands of kidnapers, Charles Boettcher, 2nd, heir to a fortune, was returned to his home last night.

There were conflicting reports on whether the family had paid the $60,000 ransom demanded in a note which two men left with the young wife of the 31-year-old wealthy broker when they kidnaped him from the driveway of his home at 11:50 p. m. February 12.

"All Obligations Fulfilled" Claude K. Boettcher, millionaire father of the kidnap victim, announced, "all obligations in the case have been fulfilled" but would not say definitely the ransom had been paid.

Albert T. Clark, Denver chief of police, said he was "uncertain" about the ransom payment.

The Denver Post said it had learned that $60,000 in bills was tossed from a car at a Culvert ten miles east of Denver into the hands of extortionists by an emissary of the Boettcher family.

The kidnapers turned him out of a motorcar in the stockyards, district and ordered him to "walk around the block and you'll find a telephone."

Boettcher, who said he was blindfolded during the entire 404 hours of his captivity, complied and telephoned his home from a drugstore. Within a few minutes, police engaged in a running gun battle with a car believed to contain the kidnapers. The car escaped.

Boettcher was taken to the home of a friend where Chief Clark questioned him. Then he was taken home to bed.

Elder Boettcher Draws Gun

The elder Boettcher, apparently excited, drew a revolver and threatened police and reporters who were congregated in front of his home when he returned from a reunion with his son.

"Get back or I'll shoot," he cried. A patrolman drew his pistol while the others dispersed, a friend disarmed the father and he later apologized.

Young Boettcher first telephoned his mother, Mrs. Millson McComick from the drugstore. She called two friends of her son, and they picked him up.

Boettcher told the chief the men ordered him to count 150 before taking the bandage from his eyes. In this he complied, he said. He said he was blindfolded immediately after he was kidnaped and that the abductors drove a night and a day before stopping. This verified notes sent his father by him while he was a captive.

With his son safe, the elder Boettcher early today talked guardedly of the case.

"This is the beginning, not the end of this case," he declared. "I might say that this is the end of one story and the beginning of another. What the outcome of the second story will be, remains to be seen."

He had previously vowed to devote the rest of his life and his fortune to punishment of the kidnapers if they harmed his son.

Fishes For Fleas, Gets $9,700 In Bonds

CHICAGO, March 2.—The prize tropical fish of Roy Van Hook were auctioned so he went fishing in a drainage canal for a species of water flea of which his fish are fond.

Imagine his surprise when he drew in his net and found $9,700 in salt-embossed bonds, as well as a number of fleas.

The fish got the fleas. Detectives got the bonds. They want to know how many got into the canal, and why.

Bank Situation Nationally

began February 14 is still in force as the Federal Reserve Board and bankers continue efforts to reopen Detroit banks.

Maryland's day-to-day bank holiday was continued pending passage of legislation to remedy the situation.

Indiana banks continued to act in accordance with local conditions, some limiting withdrawals and others doing business as usual. At Newcastle, a modified form of scrip was circulated, banks issuing the scrip against deposits, the paper being accepted as currency. Under this arrangement no currency leaves the bank. But the "frozen" deposits serve as security for the bank orders.

Ohio Situation Easing

The situation in Ohio was easing, with many bankers considering the possibility of raising the limit placed on withdrawals.

States in which bank holidays exist by proclamation of governors or authorized state bank officials are California, Oklahoma, Michigan, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee, Kentucky, Maryland, Nevada, Oregon and Arizona.

In five others restrictions on withdrawals are in effect in some of the banks. They are: Ohio, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Arkansas and Illinois. In the latter state a five per cent withdrawal limit has been made operative by three East St. Louis banks as "a temporary measure."

No holiday has been called in Minnesota, but Gov. Olson signed a bill yesterday by which the state commissioner of banks is empowered to suspend the business of a state bank for a maximum period of 15 days at his discretion.

Likewise in Idaho a bill was passed by the legislature before its adjournment last night empowering the governor to call bank holidays if such action is required.

In West Virginia the legislature passed yesterday an amended banking bill empowering the governor and banking commissioner to permit or require limited operation of banks if they deem it advisable.

PAIN DEADENED CHEST COLDS LOOSENED WITHOUT DRUGS

Get quick relief from neuralgia pain, sciatica pain, neuritis pain, rheumatic pain, lame back, stiff neck, headache, strains and chest colds by rubbing plenty of Baume Bengue (pronounced Ben-Gay) on the spot. It doesn't blister or stain. Rub it in till it sinks down and soothes the pain or breaks up the chest cold. Take no drugs, for any drug that is powerful enough to "deaden" pain or loosen a chest cold may not be good for you.

But beware of imitations. Ask your druggist for Baume Bengue by name (called "Ben-Gay" in English). There are many analgesic balms, mostly cheap imitations of Ben-Gay made out of synthetic drugs. That is why they are cheap. That is also why they are ineffective. Insist on Ben-Gay and you will get real results.

"I HAVE been faithful to thee, Cynara, in my fashion"—these words taken from the famous poem, "Cynara," by Ernest Dowson, are the keynote to the film of the same name starring Ronald Colman and playing today at the State theater.

Story of a Great Love

The shadow of one of the world's most tragic poets lies in that one word—Cynara. It is an echo of the undying love that Dowson kept throughout his short life for a girl whose refusing to marry him drove him to his death.

Of all the poems Dowson published, "Cynara" was his best known—its poignant refrain, reflecting a man's inability to be spiritually untrue to the great love of his life, exactly fits the situation of "Cynara" which, in this film, gives new angles on the question of what faithful love really is.

Ronald Colman returned to serious roles once more in his outstanding performance in "Arrowsmith" and now again in his latest release he is cast in the sort of character that he portrayed in his earlier plays, "Beau Geste" and "The Dark Angel."

Two Leading Ladies
Kay Francis plays the part of Clemency, his wife, calm and cool.
